Peace Education to Prepare for October 31:

Since Coleman and Deutsch (p. 233) stress “cooperative learning” in the reading for the section on peace education as a peace tool, we will be dividing the class into small group discussion to begin our discussion. Come prepared to share your views, and how the reading can be related to your views, on the following points:

1. How important of a peace tool is peace education in your view?
2. Who should be the target for such peace education efforts?
3. In relation to peace education, what should these individuals be educated about?
4. Finally, how should the peace education process be carried out?

Note: In doing the reading, be sure to start with Alger’s brief review of peace education as a peace tool before proceeding to the additional electronic reserve readings listed on the syllabus.
